

Anthony Styles / AJ Audits

Anthony Styles / AJ Audits

Semantic Summary

Anthony Styles, operating as AJ Audits, was a far-right YouTube auditor who livestreamed confrontational content outside UK asylum seeker hotels in London and Epping, framing himself as a citizen journalist protecting women and children from grooming gangs. His channel was exposed in September 2025 when Stand Up to Racism activists uncovered his identity as a convicted paedophile — having served 4.5 years for indecent assault on a girl under 14, with additional offences involving indecent images of children. This revelation, reported by The Independent, Daily Mail, and Byline Times, led to his channel's deletion and expulsion from far-right protest circles. Styles collaborated with other auditors including Banaman, with whom he filmed at a Guildford eviction. His case became emblematic of the criminal backgrounds surfacing within the UK anti-migrant auditing movement, documented comprehensively in Byline Times' April 2026 investigation into the far-right auditor network. His trajectory illustrates the intersection of performative vigilantism, YouTube monetisation of anti-migrant sentiment, and documented histories of serious sexual offending among figures presenting as community protectors.

Overview

Anthony Styles, operating under the alias AJ Audits, was a far-right YouTube auditor who livestreamed demonstrations outside taxpayer-funded asylum seeker accommodation in London and Epping. His channel claimed to be about protecting women and children from grooming gangs, but he was unmasked as a convicted paedophile.

Styles became a fixture of far-right activism in 2024-2025, posting videos outside migrant hotels while framing himself as a citizen journalist. His channel amassed thousands of subscribers before being deactivated or deleted by YouTube following his exposure.

Activists from Stand Up to Racism identified Styles by noticing his real name on a fake "AJ Audits" press pass he wore at protests. They searched public records and found his criminal history.
