

Entity: Julian Leppert

Entity: Julian Leppert

Semantic Summary

Veteran far-right activist, author and former councillor with over two decades of continuous involvement in the UK neo-Nazi scene, based in Epping Forest, Essex. He was the BNP's candidate for Mayor of London in 2004, a BNP councillor for Hainault, Redbridge (2006–2010), won an Epping Forest council seat for For Britain in 2019 (321 votes, 40.7%), and is now active with the British Democrats. A far-right intellectual, he wrote "Into the Furnace - A Brief History of the BNP" (2025), published through Heritage & Destiny. Searchlight identified him as one of the "veteran fascists" promoting Restore Britain alongside Steve Laws and Sam Wilkes. His significance lies in linking the old BNP generation (Nick Griffin era) to current far-right formations — the enduring activist core that cycles through organisational rebrands.

Basic Information

- Type: Person / Neo-Nazi / Former BNP councillor / Author
- Status: Active
- Role: Former BNP London mayoral candidate (2004); former BNP/For Britain councillor in Epping Forest; now active with British Democrats
- Background: Longstanding far-right activist; BNP candidate for Mayor of London 2004; BNP councillor for Hainault, Redbridge (2006–2010); For Britain councillor for Epping Forest
- Location: Epping Forest, Essex
- Platforms: Odysee, X/Twitter, Heritage & Destiny (publisher)

Role in Ecosystem

Julian Leppert is a veteran far-right activist with over two decades of continuous involvement in the UK neo-nazi scene. He was the BNP's candidate for Mayor of London in 2004, served as a BNP councillor in Redbridge (2006–2010), later won a council seat for For Britain in Epping Forest (2019), and is now active with the British Democrats.

Leppert is also a far-right intellectual and author, having written "Into the Furnace - A Brief History of the BNP" (2025), published through Heritage & Destiny. He was identified by Searchlight as one of the veteran fascists promoting Restore Britain alongside Steve Laws and Sam Wilkes, demonstrating the continuity of far-right organising across organisational forms.

His significance is as a link between the old BNP generation (Nick Griffin era) and the current far-right formations (Restore Britain, British Democrats). He represents the enduring activist core that cycles through organisational rebrands.

Known Associations

Person/Org	Relationship	Evidence
British National Party (BNP)	Former London mayoral candidate; former councillor	Searchlight
For Britain	Former councillor for Epping Forest	Searchlight
British Democrats	Current affiliation	Searchlight
Restore Britain	Promotes the party; part of veteran fascist network	Searchlight
Steve Laws	Fellow Restore Britain promoter; shared network	Searchlight
Heritage & Destiny	Publisher of his BNP history book	Searchlight

Tags

- activist
- author
- bnp
- british-democrats
- commentator
- councillor
- essex
- far-right
- for-britain
- julian-leppert
- nationalist
- odysee
- person
- politician
- restore-britain
- sam-wilkes

- steve-laws
- twitter

Electoral History

Election	Year	Party	Result
Mayor of London	2004	BNP	Lost (6th place, 1.4%)
Hainault, Redbridge council	2006	BNP	Won
Hainault, Redbridge council	2010	BNP	Lost
Epping Forest council	2019	For Britain	Won (321 votes, 40.7%)

Notes

- BNP candidate for Mayor of London in 2004
- BNP councillor for Hainault, Redbridge ward (2006–2010)
- Won Epping Forest seat for For Britain in 2019 with 321 votes (40.7%)
- Author of "Into the Furnace - A Brief History of the BNP" (2025)
- Active in promoting Restore Britain on the far-right conference circuit
- Described by Searchlight as a "veteran fascist" promoting Restore Britain

Revision #1

Created 2026-08-21 11:59:46 UTC by Admin

Updated 2026-08-21 11:59:46 UTC by Admin