Entity: Patrick Christys

Entity: Patrick Christys

Semantic Summary

British journalist and GB News presenter, hosting the 9pm "Patrick Christys Tonight" — the slot he took over from Dan Wootton in November 2023 after Wootton's suspension. A former local newspaper journalist (The Westmorland Gazette) born in Wythenshawe, Manchester, in 1992, he joined GB News in August 2021, initially co-presenting "To the Point" with Mercy Muroki. He embodies the network's younger, more aggressive style of opinion-driven, culture-war presenting; former GB News chairman Andrew Neil criticised him as a "shock jock". Married to fellow GB News presenter Emily Carver, he has also appeared on the BBC's Politics Live. His significance in the UK right-wing ecosystem is as a mainstream media amplifier of right-populist narratives — immigration, anti-woke, Brexit — delivered to millions of GB News viewers.

Basic Information

- Type: Person / Journalist / TV presenter
- Status: Active
- Role: GB News presenter ("Patrick Christys Tonight"); took over Dan Wootton's 9pm slot
- Background: Former local newspaper journalist (The Westmorland Gazette)
- Platforms: GB News, X/Twitter
- Full name: Patrick Michael Christys
- Born: 15 January 1992, Wythenshawe, Manchester

Role in Ecosystem

Patrick Christys is one of GB News's most prominent presenters, hosting the 9pm "Patrick Christys Tonight" programme — the slot previously held by Dan Wootton. He represents the younger, more aggressive style of right-wing media presenting that GB News has cultivated: opinion-driven, culture-war focused, and often courting controversy.

Christys was criticised by former GB News chairman Andrew Neil as a "shock jock" style presenter. He and his wife Emily Carver (also a GB News presenter) represent the network's strategy of building a roster of young, telegenic right-wing personalities who can compete with the BBC and Sky on style while delivering a consistent right-populist editorial line.

His significance in the ecosystem is as a mainstream media amplifier of right-wing narratives to a national TV audience — immigration, anti-woke, Brexit — reaching millions of GB News viewers.

Known Associations

Person/Org	Relationship	Evidence
GB News	Presenter (2021–present)	Wikipedia
Emily Carver	Wife; fellow GB News presenter	Wikipedia
Dan Wootton	Predecessor in 9pm slot	Wikipedia
Andrew Neil	Former GB News chairman; criticised Christys as "shock jock"	Wikipedia

Notes

- Born 15 Jan 1992 in Wythenshawe, Manchester
- Joined GB News in August 2021, initially co-presenting "To the Point" with Mercy Muroki
- Took over Dan Wootton's 9pm "Tonight" programme in November 2023 after Wootton's suspension
- Married to Emily Carver, also a GB News presenter
- Has appeared on BBC's Politics Live as a commentator
- Characterised by Andrew Neil as a "shock jock"

Tags

- anti-immigration
- anti-woke
- brexit
- channel
- commentator
- gb-news
- journalist
- patrick-christys
- person
- twitter

Revision #1
Created 2026-08-21 11:58:33 UTC by Admin
Updated 2026-08-21 11:58:33 UTC by Admin